Context

Turkey currently hosts over 3.6M registered Syrian refugees along with nearly 330,000 persons of concern from other nationalities.¹ The majority of Syrian refugees live in south-eastern Turkey, 98% among the host community. The world's largest refugee population poses significant challenges for the Turkish government in ensuring access to quality services such as education and social services and guaranteeing their livelihood and protection. As the conflict in Syria continues, greater efforts must be made to leave no one behind.

Members of single-headed households, working children, people with disabilities, survivors of sexual and gender-based violence (SGBV) and people in need of psychosocial support, among others, are particularly disadvantaged. The Emergency Social Safety Net (ESSN) assists almost 1.8M refugees, of which more than 71% are economically vulnerable and 86% work in the informal sector under the risk of exploitation.² In addition to the large number of Syrian refugees, persons of concern from other nationalities also require various legal and social advisory or translation services. Protection remains a major need for some marginalised groups.

Also, the COVID-19 pandemic is hitting those who are already left behind harder than others. Studies show that the level of information is lower among refugees and the need for support to fulfil basic needs has increased significantly. Therefore, continued support on a regular basis is needed to limit the risk of individuals resorting to negative coping mechanisms.

Local organisations have the potential to fill a gap in service delivery. Building upon a local network and trust from the community, local and community-based organisations (CBOs) can reach out to those that are at the risk of being left behind. Moreover, these organisations can respond to the need for short-term relief while at the same time combining humanitarian-oriented with development-oriented long-term approaches.

LIFT at the Humanitarian-Development-Peace Nexus

LIFT is a prime example of the Humanitarian-Development-Peace nexus (HDP) as partner organisations are supported in linking humanitarian, development and peace efforts. The local initiatives respond to urgent humanitarian needs by providing psychological support, legal and social counselling, core relief items or any kind of services that ensure the survival, dignity and human rights of the affected persons in collaboration with public institutions. In addition, development-oriented and structure-building activities contribute to the improvement of the personal well-being and socio-economic conditions of their beneficiaries in the medium to long-term. This approach is in line with the outcomes of the 2016 World Humanitarian Summit (WHS) as well as the recommendations of the Development Assistance Committee of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). It also relates to the priorities of the two donors: EU Humanitarian Aid as a humanitarian actor as well as BMZ's Transitional Development Assistance, which aims at linking relief, rehabilitation and development.

By targeting local and community-based organisations, LIFT also contributes to the Grand Bargain commitment on localisation. Local NGOs were first access points in the refugee response; over the years, they diversified their portfolio and became more professional. LIFT leverages the potential of local and community-based non-governmental organisations to complement existing services, e.g. by reaching those that have not yet been reached. LIFT partners enjoy a high level of trust among beneficiaries and are perceived as providers of safe spaces, especially for girls and women, as well as offering an option for participation at local level. By improving organisations' capacities, LIFT functions as a bridge between international funds and local needs.

Moreover, barriers for partnership are reduced by supporting local initiatives to coordinate their activities with state structures, e.g. by setting up referral systems. GIZ works closely with state authorities; while the main political partner is the Vice President's office, GIZ is also in close communication with the Ministry of National Education, Ministry of Family and Social Services and Ministry of Interior's Directorate General for Migration Management as well as several municipalities. This facilitates a more effective, efficient and sustainable support mechanism for local initiatives. This wide range of communication between state and civil society in addition to the joint steering structure of LIFT contributes to harmonising the activities with state standards while ensuring the sustainable integration of the services offered.

“LIFTing the potentials”

The project takes measures to further develop individual and organisational capacities of implementing partners for improving the quality of their services and harmonising them with existing services. To widen the impact and establish networks among different actors in the field, CLIP also reaches out to secondary target groups such as technical staff of local and central authorities, municipalities and other NGOs, CBOs and local initiatives in trainings. CLIP capacity development measures include the following trainings:

Basic Protection

Civil Society Basics (Level 1, 2)

Community Based Protection

Conflict Transformation (Level 1, 2)

Fundraising

Gender Based Violence

Legal Framework

Multiplication Trainings (to trained health counsellors)

GIZ's Refugee Response: from CLIP to LIFT

GIZ has been supporting efforts as part of the refugee response in Turkey on behalf of the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ) and the European Union (EU) since 2015. GIZ has established the Support to Refugees and Host Communities (SRHC) Cluster to coordinate projects in the areas of employment and skills development, education, protection, social cohesion and capacity development, in line with national strategies and plans of the government of Turkey as well as the priorities set by the Regional Refugee and Resilience Plan (3RP).

The Community Centres and Local Initiatives Project (CLIP) provides technical and financial support to up to 12 community centres and 20 local initiatives with the aim of improving social services, including intercultural exchange, offered by community centres and local initiatives to refugees and the host communities in Turkey. Activities are implemented in four Action Fields: (1) social services in community centres and measures to strengthen social interaction, (2) promotion of local initiatives through the establishment of the Local Initiative Fund in Turkey (LIFT), (3) harmonisation of the services offered by the community centres and local initiatives with state standards and (4) capacity development.

CLIP has extended the focus on the principle "Leaving No One Behind" (LNOB) since 2019, which is made possible thanks to the first-of-its-kind cooperation between the European Union through its Directorate-General for European Civil Protection and Humanitarian Aid Operations (DG ECHO) and the Transitional Development Assistance of Germany's Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ).

Consequently, the LIFT was piloted in 2019, and the community centres have been strengthened so as to expand their activities directed at the most vulnerable. Also, the capacity development and harmonisation measures have increased their focus on improving capacities and cooperation between actors in the provision of social services.

The Way Forward – LIFT beyond 2021

In the future, LIFT will follow a multi-services approach as part of the Community-based Local Initiatives Project (CLIP 2). CLIP 2 will be co-funded by the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ) through the Special Initiative on Forced Displacement, and the European Union, through its Humanitarian Aid Operations department (ECHO).

The fund will thus support partners in the field of not only protection but also non-formal education and social cohesion. The future LIFT will be able to adjust flexibly to priorities of donors and respond to context-specific needs.

Moreover, LIFT will continue its efforts to enhance partnerships with a variety of actors and encourage joint applications by state and non-state actors.

1 Improving access of vulnerable and at-risk persons to individual protection and community-based protection, legal advice and awareness-raising, psycho-social counselling

2 Supporting persons with specific needs, such as persons with disabilities or with specific mental health needs

3 Providing non-formal education to strengthen competencies such as language skills

4 Establishing intercultural understanding through supporting social cohesion activities, e.g. sports events, recreational activities as well as conducting information and education campaigns

All of this is complemented by GIZ's support package, which is implemented as cross-cutting measures, such as capacity development, setting up exchange formats in addition to the overall fund management.

The Local Initiative Fund in Turkey (LIFT)

LIFT is implemented as part of the Community Centres and Local Initiatives Project (CLIP), which is co-funded by the BMZ and EU Humanitarian Aid.

Local initiatives play an important role to fill a supply gap in service provision, which remains a challenge especially with regard to those that are at risk of being left behind. Yet, many local initiatives lack the required financial means to implement measures professionally and to a high standard of quality. They are also limited by insufficient language skills or management know-how, which prevents them from accessing international funds. This is where the Local Initiative Fund in Turkey (LIFT) comes in.

Local and community-based organisations can benefit from LIFT through technical and financial support to respond to specific assistance and service needs of vulnerable and at-risk persons, both from the refugee and host population. LIFT not only supports partners in accessing these funds, but also helps to build their capacities. The fund is run and administered by the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) as the lead implementing organisation.

Local initiatives provide refugees a safe space and access to protection services. Supported projects operate across different sectors and implement activities in the following areas:

 Protection activities including case management and individual protection assistance	 Referral to available services including education, health and employment services
 Psychosocial support (PSS), psychological support and counselling support (individual and group therapy)	 Advocacy and empowerment activities for specific groups
	 Awareness-raising and information campaigns

Activities adopt a one-refugee approach and target refugees and members of host community, in particular those who are vulnerable.

GIZ provides an opportunity for non-state and state structures to join forces, increase synergies and avoid setting up a parallel system. Accordingly, LIFT functions under a unique and transparent multi-actor governance structure through which implementing partners are selected jointly. It sets regional and thematic priorities and monitors progress in collaboration with the implementing partners, donors and public stakeholders. Thus, LIFT also ensures the sustainability of the efforts by linking services provided by the local initiatives and those by state institutions. GIZ, likewise, enhances the dialogue between the implemented projects and local and regional authorities through exchange visits and joint activities at regional and local level.

LIFT is implemented in consultation with Turkish authorities through the National Advisory Meetings, consisting of representatives from donor organisations, ministerial authorities and the implementing agency. The meetings are held quarterly in order to discuss the progress of implementing partners, update the participants on the current statuses of implemented projects and enhance the cooperation between projects and public operations.

Overview of the current situation in Turkey

The number of Syrians "under temporary protection" is 3,638,104 as of December 2020. This figure corresponds to 4,37% of Turkey's national population of 83,154,997. The second-largest group by nationality are Afghans, with a population of 170,000 under international protection.

€6 BILLION

The EU Facility for Refugees in Turkey (FRIT) is the answer to the EU Member States' call for significant additional funding to support refugees in the country, and manages a total of €6 billion (2021-2025). The main focus areas are humanitarian assistance, education, health, municipal infrastructure, and socio-economic support.

€32 BILLION

By the end of 2011, Turkey had already spent €12,21 million toward refugee camps. With costs in health, education, food, security, and social services, it is estimated that Turkey spends roughly €407 million a month for Syrian refugees. In his 2016 United Nations Grand Assembly meeting, President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan stated that Turkey alone has spent over €10 billion in humanitarian aid for Syrian refugees. According to the statement of Vice President Fuat Oktay at the International Forum on Local Solutions for Migration and Displacement in Gaziantep, this amount has already exceeded €32 billion in 2019.

Social Protection Schemes

The European Union (EU) through its Humanitarian Aid Operations (DG ECHO) has provided an additional EUR 16 million in support of UNHCR, the UN Refugee Agency, for the refugee response in Turkey in October 2020. This assistance will enable vulnerable refugee households affected by the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic to benefit from one-off emergency cash assistance.

 37,090 households received one off COVID-19 emergency cash payments by end of November 2020

 13 million+ primary health care consultations delivered under FRIT as of December 2020

Financial support programmes for Syrians have started with the resources that were devoted by the EU in 2016. The EU transferred 3+3 billion Euros over the following four years to Turkey to be dedicated to the refugee response. One such significant programme is the Emergency Social Safety Net (ESSN) funded by ECHO and implemented by the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC) and the Turkish Red Crescent in cooperation with the Ministry of Family, Labour and Social Services (MoFLSS). Turned into the world's largest cash transfer programme, ESSN has become a significant source of relatively stable financial income for a large number of Syrian and other refugees in Turkey since 2016. The support is provided through a debit card named "KızılayKart" issued to eligible households based on an assessment of certain demographic criteria.

To help vulnerable refugees during the Covid-19 pandemic, the EU has further adapted its humanitarian response to meet new challenging needs. For example, the EU provided an additional one-off ESSN cash payment to help refugees with the devastating economic impacts of the pandemic.

Since 2017, vulnerable refugee families whose children attend school regularly are supported by EU's bi-monthly cash transfers under the Conditional Cash Transfers for Education (CCTE) implemented by UNICEF and Turkish Red Crescent in cooperation with the Ministry of Family, Labour and Social Services. As of December 2020, the CCTE has assisted over 628,000 children and it is expected to help more than 700,000 children to continue their education until early 2022. The cash assistance is provided via KızılayKart and the amount per child varies from €5 to €9 monthly.

The organisation and the project

AHCSA aims at providing solutions to the basic problems that refugees of Afghan origin face living in Trabzon, Gümüşhane and Giresun. The project focuses particularly on vulnerable groups, including women that are survivors of gender-based violence (GBV), unaccompanied children, child brides, persons with disabilities and elderly people. Within the scope of this project, the following activities are carried out: legal counselling, interpretation services and psychosocial support in addition to seminars on basic rights and obligations of refugees. Moreover, seminars on gender-based violence are conducted.

The organisation seeks to provide solutions to the basic problems experienced by refugees, facilitate daily life and inform other relevant units about the current situation of asylum seekers and discuss the current situation with the decision makers at the local level so as to improve it.

The organisation and the project

Bonyan is an independent, impartial Syrian organisation that was launched in 2012. Since 2014, it has worked as a fully registered NGO with headquarters in Gaziantep and 5 offices in northwest Syria and Turkey. In 2018, Bonyan reached more than 500,000 beneficiaries through its programs in various sectors in Syria and Turkey. Bonyan's refugee response programming in Turkey focuses on the following themes: education, protection and livelihoods with social cohesion as a cross-cutting theme.

Building on Bonyan's experience, expertise, and network, the project's main focus will be child protection and reducing protection risks for at-risk children in particular working children, those facing the risk of early marriage and those with special educational needs. Since Bonyan considers that protection vulnerabilities and risks are heightened for drop-out children, activities of information dissemination, awareness-raising, counselling and referral will play a major role in providing education services. The project also aims to cater for other vulnerable groups such as the elderly, the sick, the disabled and the needy.

Bonyan also conducts information dissemination and GBV seminars, with appropriate COVID-19 measures.

In addition, Bonyan case workers accompany and assist vulnerable refugees who cannot speak Turkish during registration to formal and non-formal public education institutions, as well as other occasions such as appointment, accompaniment, translation, and follow-up regarding hospital visits, visits to population directorates and the Provincial Directorate of Migration Management offices.

Since the establishment of the centre in October 2019, more than 3500 people have received services mainly on legal, health and psychological support individually. With group activities, their physical and psychological well-being has been supported. Furthermore, Mavi Kalem carries individual protection management process with women who have experienced gender-based violence or have critical health conditions.

Due to pandemic outbreak, activities provided by the Centre have been held online since April 2020. After observing the reasons for low participation, internet packages were distributed to reduce the barriers in access. Information on COVID-19 is disseminated via brochures on social media and website. Also, informative meetings were held with children and their mothers. Individual counselling services continue via the phone/ internet.

RET YKD has invested in designing evidence-based cross-cutting assistance interventions.

The overall objective of this project in the scope of LIFT is to facilitate vulnerable individuals' (host, refugee and asylum seekers) access to services and rights in Çorum through a community-based approach conducive to reducing vulnerabilities. The centre-based approach allows beneficiaries to (1) regain some sense of normalcy given the trauma and psychosocial stress that most have been exposed to or experienced as a result of forced displacement, (2) feel emotionally and socially empowered through custom-tailored interventions, (3) access public services for female beneficiaries by expanding their social network(s) beyond the prevailing societal limitations and restrictions imposed on them, (4) overcome the information gap on protection services.

The organisation's areas of expertise include health, education and youth services as well as immigration and refugee services.

Through this project, TRC's Keçiören Child Protection Centre aims at supporting children from refugee and host communities by ensuring their access to formal education and enhancing childhood development as well as conducting consultancy and guidance for children and their families to access services. Being able to access psychosocial support and voice their concern allows children and their families to access their basic rights and reduce their vulnerability, strengthens positive coping mechanisms and prevents discrimination and social exclusion, poverty and abuses.

In order to achieve the goal, the project looks into enabling children in remote areas to access Child Friendly Spaces (CFS) activities and psychosocial support (PSS) services where there is a lack of these services/activities to reduce stress and trauma.

The organisation and the project

The Association for Supporting Tarlabası Community, known also as Tarlabasi Community Centre (TTM), was established in 2007 in Tarlabası area of Beyoğlu, Istanbul. TTM aims at reducing the prejudices against the area and creating a safe space, where children are supported to fulfil their potential and become socially and psychologically empowered. TTM's areas of expertise include children's rights, child participation, social inclusion and non-discrimination, urban rights/right to the city and gender equality.

The overall objective of the project in the scope of LIFT is to contribute to the psychosocial development of refugee children in Tarlabası, develop healthy coping mechanisms and social cohesion as well as facilitate school enrolment and maintain continued school attendance. Project activities target refugee children of Dom, Abdal and Kurdish origin from Syria as well as children from Turkey. By facilitating various psychosocial and educational activities such as workshops on art, social cohesion, social circus, photography for children aged 7-14, and a play hour for children aged 3-6, TTM aims to contribute to developing self-expression, self-esteem as well as motor skills, physical coordination, concentration and teamwork skills of children and reduce negative coping mechanisms such as peer-violence, violent communication or non-communication.

The activities support the children in overcoming the traumas of displacement, developing new social ties and a sense of belonging. This prepares them for school and encourages their attendance. Due to a language barrier many parents are unaware of rights and procedures and require assistance. To this end, briefing meetings provide parents with information on registration, schooling and protection opportunities. Referrals are organised in case of protection needs.

Achievements

Since the beginning of their LIFT-supported project, TTM has started to organise structured psychosocial and social cohesion workshops with children and a play hour for aged 3-6. As a community centre, TTM has attached considerable importance to empowerment of volunteers and their ability and skills. With the project, volunteers are trained on issues such as Non-Violent Communication, Active Listening, Inclusive-Decision Making, Trauma, Gender and Positive Discipline.

Throughout the project, TTM facilitates school enrolment of 30 children of Dom, Abdal and Kurdish origin from Syria. With the enrolment process, TTM achieves stronger relationship with Syrian caregivers/families.

Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, TTM has been giving remote counselling about educational, legal (reaching social services) and psychological support. During the project period, almost 500 individuals benefited from various protection services.

The project constituted a point of change in the lives of 400 women, culminating in their awareness of their legal and social rights.

In addition, awareness was spread to large audiences of the Arabic and Turkish communities, by publishing and distributing a magazine (Wamda Aman) through online platforms and social media. The project constituted a point of change in the lives of 350 women, culminating in their awareness of their legal and social rights.

After the outbreak of the pandemic, the follow up of the beneficiaries were performed through phone calls. The activities continued through online platforms, while individual support was given through online appointments.
